“Gloria Juanita Randle, aka "Red" and aka "GG," loved both of her Fathers. Her earthly father, commonly referred to as "Dusty" or "Tot," with that long, pretty hair, set a standard for her that no other earthly Man could ever quite match. The photo that we see on the Singleton Funeral Home website today is the picture that was taken when her Father was ushering her down the aisle to give her away to a husband, we believe, named Floyd. Of course, we all see that this same photo is our Precious Memory that her earthly Father is ushering her up to Heaven to be with her Heavenly Father. But, in between the 8-2-1947 sunrise and the 9-22-2019 sunset, "GG" had a full life. The same Doctor that delivered her, also delivered her Children. Her Father taught her how to be tough, as Charles, her children's Father, found out when their courtship days consisted of the three of them sitting in the living room with no touching whatsoever. Gloria's father, however, discovered that Charles would work, make a living and earn promotions. So, after attending an expensive private school, Gloria and Charles, who had become a leader in the Military, toured the world. The beautiful Children grew up, and "GG," never quite seeing the man to measure up to her dad, had maybe one or two Special Friends, but for her, "Dusty" or "Tot" was her idea of the ideal man. Gloria, being the consummate Manager that she was, made quite an impact in the greater Houston area, but especially around Hempstead, Studewood and Acres Homes. "Red" managed Resale Shops and Cafes, but she also sold Medical Supplies and did Home Health Care. "Red" could Dance, Shoot Pool, and, if somebody wanted to make it interesting, she "could do a little gambling too." Although everybody eventually found out how she idolized her dad, not everybody knew the details about how she financed a sports and athletic team for youngsters, and she dared anybody to say anything negative about any one of the players, parents or coaches. "GG" even paid cash for a Van to haul the team around. Always doing something, "Red" sold fish and quarts of gumbo, but, in her later years, she sold snacks out of her house. Gloria was especially famous for cooking salmon croquets, oxtail stew, cat fish, mashed potatoes, cornbread and mustard greens. Gloria, "Red," "GG," they did it all, except, maybe two things. She and a Special Friend did not beat her sister, Renee, playing dominoes. And, because she was unconscious when she went to be with the Lord, she did not read her nightly Scripture.
